

The Magic of Geneva Glen

So much more than just a summer camp, Geneva Glen is the place to spend an unforgettable summer while having a positive influence on the lives of children. As a counselor, you have the opportunity to gain the richest benefits from the camp experience through constant contact and involvement with children of many ages and backgrounds.

At Geneva Glen, counselors run the daily activities such as arts and crafts, archery, horseback riding, swimming and adventure programming like climbing and rappelling. Colorado Open Space parks, rock climbing sites, and caves and rivers are all just a short drive from camp for daily, overnight and multi-day trips. Even with its remarkable program opportunities, what defines Geneva Glen are the relationships that are formed throughout the summer. Enduring traditions and familiar values unite our campers and staff in a common bond, and join us as a camp family.

Geneva Glen is a place where a child will discover unknown talents and have new experiences. These might be as simple as coming up with something creative to make in arts and crafts, or as exciting as overcoming a fear of heights on the climb wall or high ropes course. Even simply meeting the challenge of living with 10 other kids in close quarters, away from mom and dad and the comforts of home can be a significant achievement. Geneva Glen is where kids can escape some of the anxieties of the real world. Here they don't have to worry about grades in school or impressing their peers. Freedom from these social pressures helps them come closer to realizing and expressing who they really are. Counselors provide support, comfort, and empathy to their campers, who in turn experience significant personal growth. It is the quality and hard work of our counselors that makes this possible.

At Geneva Glen, children and counselors alike can encounter the magic of self-transformation. The campers who adore you, the children that try your patience, and the ones who confide in you will change your life as much as you transform theirs. While monetary compensation is low, the experience and fellowship is of immeasurable value. If you want to positively influence a child's life and experience the Magic of the Glen for yourself, then Geneva Glen may be the most rewarding way to spend your summer.
